

CHALLENGE

Wayfair, one of the world's largest online destinations for the home, had conducted a brand overhaul and launched several brand awareness initiatives in order to meet its strategic goal of becoming the go-to brand for home décor online. However, with a small market research team and lean budget, Wayfair had limited means to track the ROI of their efforts.

SOLUTION

To measure changes in brand awareness for Wayfair, Hanover Research applied its Brand Tracker tool, a series of longitudinal surveys that assess changes in brand perception over time and measure the impact of individual branding campaigns.

IMPACT

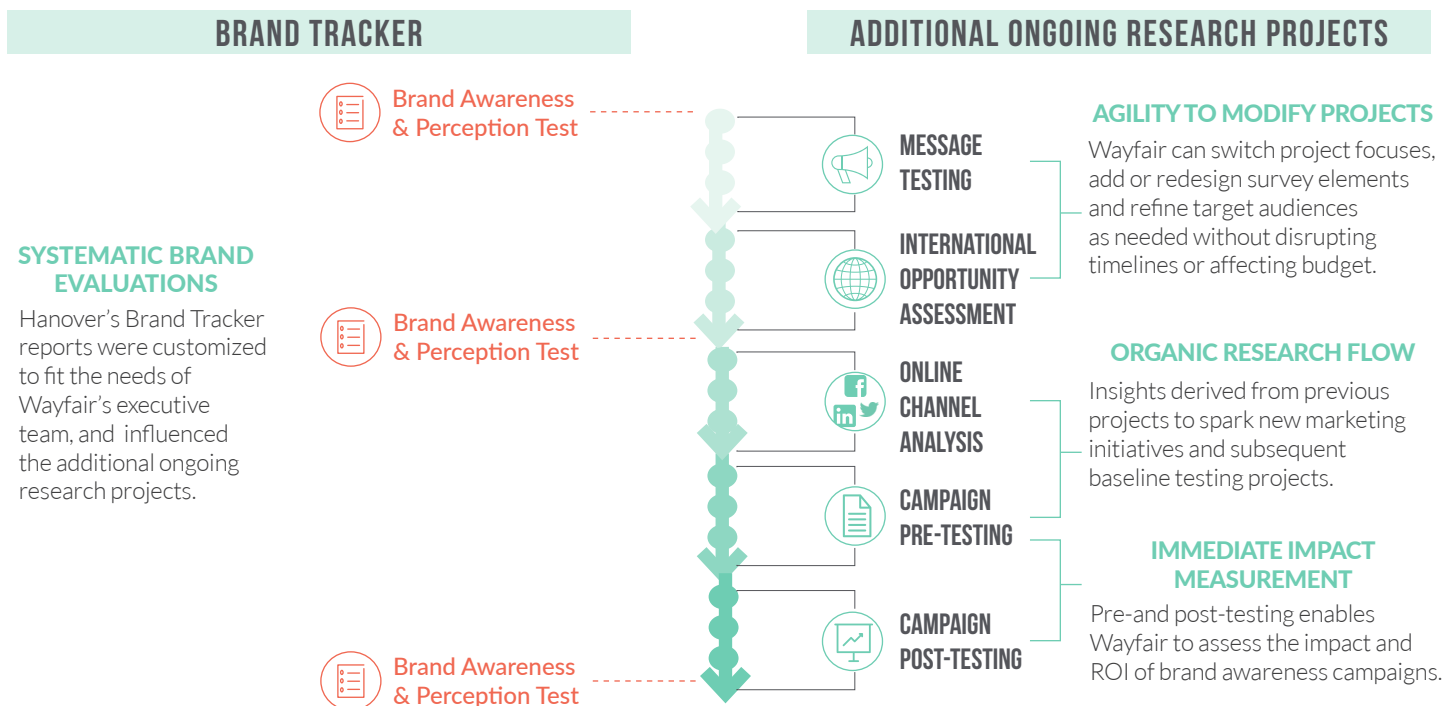

As a result of Hanover's brand tracker tool, Wayfair was able to assess the effectiveness of its rebranding efforts and quickly course correct as needed to maintain a path toward increasing brand equity.

As a result of the brand tracking initiatives, Wayfair:

- ✓ Measured a 52% increase in aided brand awareness from 2011 to 2014
- ✓ Focused its rebranding efforts to the areas that were most impactful

TRACK BRAND AWARENESS AT REGULAR INTERVALS TO INFORM AND MEASURE OTHER MARKETING INITIATIVES

ILLUSTRATIVE

We've been extremely happy with the partnership. I think Hanover produces great work and we've been thrilled. We appreciate your nimbleness to modify projects to fulfill our on-demand needs

—Director, Brand Development and Senior Director of Market Branding

For more information regarding this case study, contact info@hanoverresearch.com